Description

Wiseguyreports.Com Adds "Microturbine -Market Demand, Growth, Opportunities and analysis of Top Key Player Forecast to 2021" To Its Research Database

A microturbine is a small combustion turbine whose output ranges between 25 kW and 500 kW. It can produce both heat and electricity but on a small scale compared to a normal turbine. The technology is relatively new in the distributed generation industry. Microturbines are primarily used in stationary power generation applications. R&D is going on to accommodate the technology in the transportation industry as well. Trials are being carried out for using microturbines in roadways and marine transportation. However, the widespread adoption of the technology in roadways and marine transportation is expected to happen toward the end of the forecast period.

The analysts forecast the global microturbine market to grow at a CAGR of 21.32% during the period 2016-2020.
