Key Highlights

The retail savings and investments market covers four non-life retail savings and investment products: deposits, mutual funds, direct investment in equity, and direct investment in bonds.

The Canadian retail savings & investments market had total investments of $2,499.2bn in 2015, representing a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 8.2% between 2011 and 2015.

The mutual funds segment was the market's most lucrative in 2015, with total investments of $860.9bn, equivalent to 34.45% of the market's overall value.

Bonds have proved popular in the recent past. Canada Savings Bonds are issued by the government and allow citizens to loan money to the government with interest for small time periods. They are cashable at any time. A KPMG report has stated that "there is currently no valid economic rationale for the retail debt program" but the Canadian government disputed that assertion and continues to issue them.
