The Global Commercial Aerospace Carbon Brakes Market: Highlights

Stratview Research foresees a strong growth of 8.4% (CAGR) in the commercial aerospace carbon brakes market over the next five years (2016 – 2021), which offers an opportunity to the aerospace industry players to align themselves with the market growth.

There are a number of factors bolstering the growth of carbon brakes in commercial aerospace industry. The author of the industry report cited increasing commercial aircraft deliveries, growing aircraft fleet size, and better operational performance of carbon brakes over steel brakes as some of the key growth drivers of the global commercial aircraft carbon brakes market.

North America expected to be the dominant and Asia Pacific to be the fastest growing region. North America is expected to remain the largest market for carbon brakes due to manufacturing base of largest commercial OEM, Boeing and due to increasing retrofit market. However, during the next five years, Asia Pacific is expected to grow at the highest rate. Both OEM and aftermarket segments are likely to offer healthy growth opportunity in the next five years.

High market consolidation

Our research findings suggested a high consolidation in the carbon brakes market. The key carbon brakes are Safran Landing Systems (Messier-Bugatti-Dowty), UTC Aerospace Systems, Honeywell Aerospace, and Meggitt Aircraft Braking Systems.
