Military Armored Vehicles Market to reach $32.4 billion with 3.71% CAGR Analysis and Forecast to 2022

PUNE, INDIA, October 14, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The ability to offer ground forces increased capabilities pertaining to protection and munitions is expected to spur the need for armored vehicles over the forecast period. The threat from neighboring nations and insurgency issues will also be a major factor expected to contribute to the increasing demand for armored vehicles. Furthermore, the large base of existing inventory as well as new procurements throughout the next decade will create the need for servicing and maintenance activities, which is expected to fuel the armored vehicles MRO market to a great extent.
