

Organisations can tackle ISO 27001 documentation using ITGP's pre-written templates

ELY, CAMBRIDGESHIRE, UNITED KINGDOM, October 17, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- ITGP, the leading publisher of cyber security and ISO 27001 books and tools, is encouraging organisations and individuals involved in ISO 27001 compliance projects to tackle the documentation requirements by using their ISO 27001 ISMS Documentation Toolkits, which contain pre-written templates.

Alan Calder, the founder and chief executive officer of ITGP, said: "Organisations implementing an ISO 27001-compliant ISMS deal with hundreds of documents and records to meet the documentation requirements of the Standard. Because each policy and procedure must be researched, developed, approved and deployed, organisations can take over 12 months to achieve ISO 27001 ISMS certification, significantly increasing the cost of the implementation project and the possibility of error or confusion."

The ISO 27001 ISMS Documentation Toolkit contains 148 pre-written and customisable templates that fully comply with IEC/ISO 27001:2013, delivering a cost-effective alternative to hiring a consultant.

Moreover, organisations can take advantage of ITGP's No 3 Comprehensive ISO 27001 ISMS toolkit, which provides a more comprehensive suite of expert guidance, pre-written templates, books, implementation guides and standards to help organisations achieve ISO 27001 ISMS compliance.

The toolkit contains unique features, such as: a documentation dashboard and implementation management tools; single-input customisation options; and integration with the ISO 27001:2013-aligned software, vsRisk.

Each ISMS documentation toolkit has been developed by IT Governance's ISO 27001 practitioners to provide organisations with the guidance needed to implement an ISMS. The toolkits are designed to help create policies and procedures, and allow information security teams and ISO 27001 implementers to reduce the cost and time of creating documentation from scratch.

ITGP's documentation toolkits have helped over 4,000 business worldwide produce up-to-date documentation that complies with various standards, legislation and regulations such as ISO 27001, ISO 9001, the PCI DSS and the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR).
