

Global Molecular Spectroscopy Market – Trends and Forecast 2022

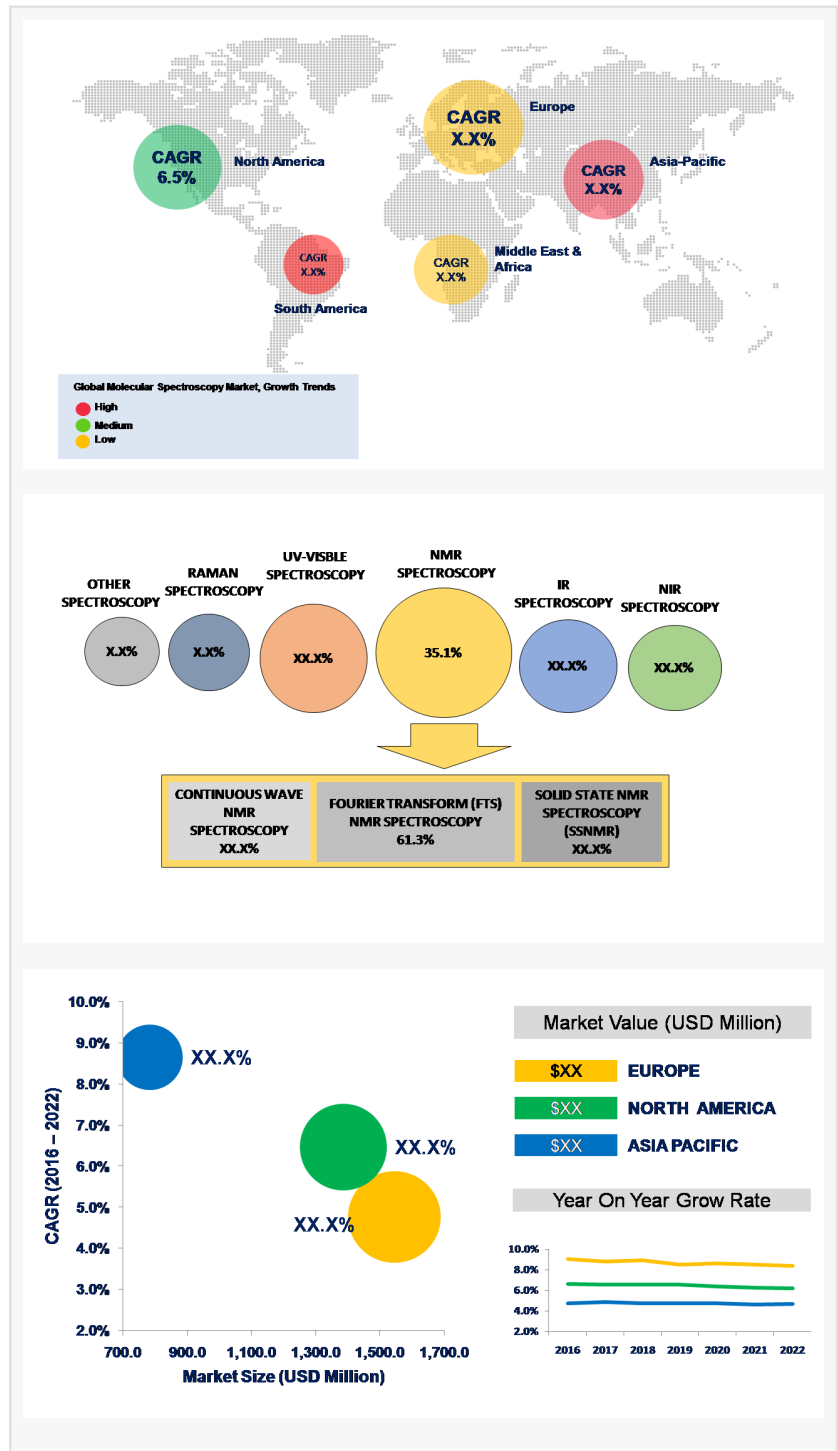

The Global Molecular spectroscopy market is expected to reach USD 7.6 billion by 2022 growing at 6.3% from USD 4.9 billion.

DALLAS, TEXAS, UNITED STATES, October 17, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Global Molecular Spectroscopy Market, By Type (Nuclear Magnetic Resonance (Continuous Wave, Fourier Transform, Solid State), UV-Vis, Infrared (IR), Near Infrared (NIR), Colour Spectroscopy, Raman Spectroscopy, Others), By Applications (Pharmaceuticals, Biotech, Food and Beverages, Environmental Testing, Academics, Others), By Geography – Trends and Forecast to 2022

The Global Molecular spectroscopy market is segmented into product type, applications and geography. Based on geography the market is segmented into the regions like North & South America, Europe, Asia-Pacific and Middle East & Africa. North America is expected to dominate the market with 47.8% market share followed by Europe. The report of this market shares countries such as U.S., Germany, France, U.K., Netherlands, Switzerland, Turkey, Russia, China, India, South Korea, Japan, Australia, Singapore, Saudi Arabia, South Africa and, Brazil.

- By Product type:
- Nuclear Magnetic Resonance (NMR) Spectroscopy
 - UV Visible Spectroscopy

- Infrared (IR) Spectroscopy
- Near Infrared Spectroscopy (NIR)
- Colour Measurement Spectroscopy

By Applications:

- pharmaceutical
- food and beverages
- environmental testing
- biotech
- Academics
- Others.

The molecular spectroscopy market is highly fragmented and the major players have used various strategies such as new product launches, expansions, agreements, joint ventures, partnerships, acquisitions, and others to increase their footprints in this market. Some examples of recent strategies/developments are: In February 2014, Thermofisher Scientific, Inc. acquired Life Technology Inc., Shimadzu launched its new ICPMS-2030 spectrometer for elemental impurity analysis in pharmaceutical products among others. The report includes market shares of molecular spectroscopy market for global, Europe, North America, Asia Pacific and Rest of the World.
