

EquityBuild Finance Announces New Investment Series with Insight on Scams and Challenges of the Banking Crisis

Concerning Financial Reports on Real Estate Investment Company Website That Investigate Red Flags and Current Concerns and Complaints in the Markets

PLANO, TEXAS, UNITED STATES,

October 20, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- EquityBuild Finance will now feature a special series of reports on their website to educate clients and potential investors on the current state of affairs in the world of finance. The exclusive articles draw on deep analysis from top financial minds on the markets and investment strategy.

The first report titled QE Has Big Banks Holding Back Even More delves into the still lingering effects of the Great Recession and why Quantitative Easing is such an important concept to understand now.

"Many investments can seem 'too good to be true' which is why it is worth educating yourself on the real asset class," said Shaun Cohen, Vice President of EquityBuild. "In desperation or with a lack of understanding or deeper investigation, some investors may fall prey to very bad situations or even to a scam or Ponzi scheme. Many investments, such as stocks, have no lack of upsetting ups and downs that leave a fair number of investors upset and angry and full of worry. It is healthy to be skeptical and critical about such investments, to heed red flags, review your strategy, and to use caution and beware of potential problems to avoid becoming a victim of poor investments, feel the effects of a ripoff, or experience serious losses."

Here is an excerpt from the Report:

"Have you been watching the financial news lately? If so, I hope you have a strong stomach.

It's not just the daily fluctuations -- the volatility that I liken to a roller coaster ride. But more and more there are concerns about the entire direction of the economy.

Between the economic turndown that followed in January, a worldwide economy that has begun to experiment with negative interest rates.

Remember why rates are so low in the first place. It's a response to the Great Recession called Quantitative Easing. "QE" for short.

Many economists will tell you that the Great Recession has been over since 2010. Yet hard-working Americans continue to face real hardship. And investors face daunting news on all fronts.

Given the terrible uncertainty in the markets today, you owe it to yourself to look for an alternative."

“Real estate is a real asset and one that keeps value,” said Cohen. “Too often investors in real estate experience unfortunate issues such as the terrible oversight of crooked managers and contractors, which turns them off from this asset class. This is the number one complaint we hear, and it is a big reason we take care of the property management side so our clients don’t need to stay awake at night with needless worry. EquityBuild Finance scam detection helps us look out for our clients. We want to fully educate our clients so that they can feel completely happy with their decision to invest in real estate. The EquityBuild Finance review process is a commitment to give our investors a win-win.”

EquityBuild has been investing for decades in rental real estate. The company has a strong belief in education and smart investing. See full report.
