LAFAYETTE, IND., UNITED STATES, October 22, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- LAFAYETTE, Ind. – Author Faye Weedon Bridgeforth shows readers a funny yet inviting and truthful story in her Christian autobiography, "How I Fell in Love."

A story of an unworthy love that turned into worthy, "How I Fell in Love," is the author's journey of how she fell in love with God, through the many trials in her life, the disappointments and betrayals from family and friends. She learned that God is the only one she can always count on. The purpose of the book is not only to share her experiences with others but to show them the wonderful power of God's love for everyone.

"The responses of the readers are amazing! They tend to respond to having a clearer awareness about God's presence in their lives."

Trinity Tate-Edgerton, co-owner and Acquisitions Editor, Tate Publishing.

"My book started as a journal because I was going through similar situations over and over again, so I felt that it was the time to try and learn from them. In the process, I saw that God's hand had been in my life through all of it. As I began to look deeper, I saw that not only was God in every situation but that He brought me through them, and then I could see His love for me. I had never felt such love before or since from any person. The more that He showed me His love for me, the more I could show Him my love for Him. 'How I Fell in Love' was seven years in the making, from the beginning to the place where it is now. It was God that directed me to Tate Publishing," shares Bridgeforth, when asked about the inspiration behind her compelling book.

"The responses of the readers are amazing. There are some who know Bridgeforth, and can hear her voice and personality in the book. Others who do not know her well tend to respond to having a clearer awareness about God's presence in their lives," states Trinity Tate-Edgerton, co-owner and Acquisitions Editor for Tate Publishing.

Published by Tate Publishing and Enterprises, the book is available through bookstores nationwide, from the publisher at www.tatepublishing.com/bookstore, or by visiting barnesandnoble.com or amazon.com.

Living in Indiana with her three children, Bridgeforth is an avid advocate and supporter of helping homeless. Due to her personal experiences in life, Bridgeforth was inspired to write "How I Fell in Love." Through her personal approach with her readers, she is able to bring the evidence of God's love in a very special way.

Studying the bible for several years, Bridgeforth is credible that she has learned first hand the love that God has for her, and she knows that He has a special love for everyone. Her authority comes from her true love for God, and the desire to share that love with others.
