

Colorado War Vets Partner to Create Stellar Investigation Agency

Marine Corp Tenacity & Navy Seal Endurance Gives This Investigation and Security Team the Advantage

DENVER, CO, UNITED STATES, November 10, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Two war veterans, who were among the fortunate to make it home, decided to maximize their military experience by creating a reputable security firm that could pivot with services that serve major companies, legal investigations, public security, and both traditional and cyber surveillance—this is Pilum Defense Agency, Inc.

Specialties span the securities market with financial forensic investigations as well as Corporate, Civil, and Criminal investigations. The full-service team has a tenure in high security from the Justice Department to the various law enforcement agencies that give clients the most thorough team in the Denver metro areas. In addition, the bilingual skills of team members allow cross-border security, unlike most agencies that must sub-contract which can jeopardize the integrity of the investigation and security.

As Veterans Day is a time for honor, co-founder Michael Mancha attributes their success to the respect Americans share with veterans: “Our team members have served with integrity, honor, and valor. Holding these same core values, we have built our brand around this. Pilum Defense Agency exists because we believe that former military members bring businesses truly unique skills in dealing with unknowable situations and complex problem sets. We hold our reputations sacred and will never compromise on our commitments to clients and partners. We are committed to leading the industry by setting the highest ethical standards. We believe it is our duty to remain responsible for our actions and for advancing professionalism and greater efficiencies within the investigation industry.”

Statistically, small business to large corporations; law firms to research & development groups; personal protection to employee and trade investigations—Pilum is at the crest in serving this growing industry.
