Internet Publishing and Broadcasting Content —

Publishing on the internet covers a broad range of content by advertisers and publishers like periodical advertising, educational content like journals and medical publishing, informative content like news, magazine, newsletter publishing and financial magazines. It also includes entertainment sites like social media, gaming, comic book, art and travel publishing exclusively on the internet. Internet publishing and broadcasting also includes broadcasting on the internet in the form of audio or video like internet radio stations.

Internet search Portals —

Internet search portals include operating websites which provide a search engine to generate and maintain extensive databases of Internet addresses and content in an easily searchable format. It includes internet search websites and covers other additional Internet services such as e-mail, connections to other web sites, auctions, news, other limited content and serves as a home base for Internet users.

There has been a shift in music streaming from analog to digital. It has helped operators to cut costs by replacing the traditional operational systems using stations or satellites with internet. Also, people are shifting towards streaming music services by using online subscriptions and ad plans and free services. For instance, Beats 1 digital radio station was launched by Apple music. Spotify and Pandora are the other popular radio stations. Internet publishing and broadcasting companies are offering music streaming via internet that can be further be used by music companies to enhance user experience and tap millions of subscribers.

According to Market research firm The Business Research Company's Media Consultant, Abdul Wasay, people are changing the way to connect and communicate with each other. They are using social platforms to share and be in touch with their family and friends. Social platforms are also acting as a source of entertainment to its users.
