WiseGuyReports.Com Publish a New Market Research Report On –“Condom 2016 US Market Expected To Grow At CAGR 5.03% And Forecast To 2020”.

The analysts forecast the condom market in the US to grow at a CAGR of 5.03% during the period 2016-2020.

A condom is a barrier device used during sexual intercourse as a contraceptive method and as a protection against infections. Condoms are used both by males and females. As a method of birth control, male condoms have the advantage of being inexpensive and easy to use. Male condoms are primarily made from latex, but other materials such as polyurethane, polyisoprene, and lamb intestine are also used. Female condoms are generally made of nitrile.

Traditionally, male condoms were the only option in the market, but recently, female condoms have gained popularity. In developed countries like the US, women are experimenting with condoms, creating a demand for such products in the country. However, in developing countries like India, the use of female condoms is very low due to pre-conceived notions that inhibit its use. In addition, female condoms are comparatively expensive compared to male condoms.
