ALLENTOWN, PENNSYLVANIA, UNITED STATES, December 9, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Leading tech provider KDG can help any business organize workflow, improve business measures, collaborate with partners, and satisfy more customers thanks to its Zoho Creator Certified team of developers. KDG is only one of a few tech providers in the nation who can develop, design, and provide IT support to applications built using the drag and drop features of Zoho Creator.

> Our team strives to...provide the power of data logistics and CRM to small businesses the way larger businesses have been using it for some time.

"While Zoho makes creating a web application simpler, many businesses cannot dedicate enough time to building a website internally," explains Kyle David, CEO of KDG. "However, because the team of developers at KDG is certified, we can efficiently develop applications, saving a business time, money, and aggravation."

Zoho Creator is so popular amongst business owners because it allows them to create a web application with a very shallow learning curve. As KDG can attest, a limit in technical knowledge prevents many business owners from branching out digitally. However, Zoho Creator strives to change this. It offers a variety of other features to facilitate the development process, such as customizable reports, form designs, and script builders. A business can also effortlessly integrate its application with Google Apps for easy user login and file sharing.

Not only does Zoho Creator help make a business run smoother, it also helps simplify the lives of that business's customers. Zoho Creator's Customer Portal gives customers the opportunity to safely and securely collect and display information unique to users. This allows users to login and see information that is specific only to them and allows application administrators unparalleled ability to scale applications ranging from the most simple to the most complex among dozens to thousand of customers.

"A lot of projects that we do inside of Zoho Creator and CRM can be completed within 200 hours," David explains. "Paired with the program's easy-to-use features, our team strives to take away any of the burden application development may place on a business and provide the power of data logistics and CRM to small businesses the way larger businesses have been using it for some time."
