APAC will be fastest growing region

The Asia-Pacific region accounted for the fastest growing market due to the shift in preferences towards e-commerce platforms. With rapid urbanization, it is seen that the average consumers are adapting to the new ways and formats. The regions like Indian and China are exposed to increased number of such online shopping and organized retails in last few years. The increased traffic on such websites leads to increasing demand for protective packaging for secured delivery of products. These industries demand such bubble rolls, bags, pouches, etc. for the convenience of the delivery process. APAC is expected to show staggering growth by the end of the forecasted period.
