

NoQue Launches in LA, This is the UberPool for Clubbing!

With NoQue, users can book an entire table, or chose to share one with other NoQue users, influencers, or celebrities to make clubbing even better.

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, November 14, 2016 / EINPresswire.com/ -- Los Angeles, CA, November 14, 2016 - NoQue today announces the launch of its new NoQueApp for the LA party scene. The platform acts as a personal VIP host, making it simple for clubgoers to book and share tables at the most exciting venues in the city.

While getting in to an LA club is no easy feat, NoQue streamlines the table booking process to guarantee users a great night out surrounded by friends, celebrities, and other like-minded people. The app brings the sharing economy to the nightlife industry, by enabling clubgoers to join other people's tables, split the bill, and meet other cool people at the same venue.

Better yet, NoQue shows users who else is at an event before they make the decision to go, helping them to narrow down which clubs are the most happening on a particular night.

To get started, users browse through the list of clubs featured on the NoQue app. Once a club catches their eye, a user may select it to view the open tables and seats available, as well as who else is currently sitting at the shared table. To book, users simply choose the amount of seats they'd like to reserve, and pay directly within the app via Apple Pay or credit card. Additionally, NoQue lets users invite their friends to join tables with them, allowing groups to easily organize and pay for their nights out.

In the past few years, consumers - and especially younger ones - have turned to collaborative consumption in search for alternatives to traditional services. In fact according to an Airbnb poll, three quarters of millennials are fans of the sharing economy. NoQue combines the collaborative and nightlife markets, enabling users to cut costs and interact with more people at the club.

"At NoQue, we're on a mission to make clubbing even better," Yazan Daas, Co-founder and Product Manager "We make getting into the best clubs hassle-free, and provide you the opportunity to hang out with celebrities and other influencers at the coolest events in the city. What could be better than that?"
