

FDA EXCLUSIVE: A Spotlight on Regulation in Antibacterial Drug Development

*FDA Division of Anti-Infective Products
Director, Sumathi Nambair, due to Present at Superbugs & Superdrugs
2017*

LONDON, ENGLAND, UNITED KINGDOM, November 30, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- SMi Group are thrilled to have industry expert Sumathi Nambair, provide regulatory and compliance updates on FDA legislation in antibacterial drug development at the 19th annual 2017 Superbugs & Superdrugs show, returning to Central London on 20th and 21st March.

The long running event will once again gather a global audience of scientific leaders, government bodies and anti-infective specialists, providing a focal point to discuss the global action plan on antimicrobial resistance.

In her current role at the FDA, Dr. Nambair provides regulatory oversight for anti-infective products, including antibacterial, antifungal, and antiparasitic drugs. Her keynote presentation will explore FDA development programmes and activities to facilitate antibiotic drug discovery.

SMi Group are also delighted to welcome the expertise of Xavier Duportet, CEO from Eligo Bioscience who has recently confirmed to speak. Following a €2M deal from leading microbiome investor, Seventure, the talk will offer progressive insight into sequence-specific antimicrobials for targeted eradication of carriage.

Networking and learning with our peers is the secret to improving the drug development pipeline.
