According to him "I've paid attention to hip-hop since early 2004. - Which was the beginning. I just planned to know how they created the music, it was interesting, and I assumed they recorded and played the musical instruments simultaneously. I didn't know, and so I started learning it in 2004. I just searched for it, started forums, Rap Music. I started inquiring people how to do it. Then I experienced phases of the items I liked; underground hip-hop, mainstream. Which was the beginning."

In these days he is making his beats with a mini keyboard and other plugins and achieves top position on soundclick.com and myflashstore. He sells 1000 of beats to the upcoming and famous artist in the world. He makes an effort to bring quality music production industry standard and artist friendly and known as the talented music producer in the industry at this time. His main dream is to provide top quality music production to the worldwide artist. According to him "my strength is placing stuff together and so the whole song - if somebody reaches me with the idea, " I wish to execute a song such as this", I'll build it. Instrumental wise - I believe melodies. I love melodies quite a bit, and that's my personal thing."

He started his website (<http://jaystacks.com/>) and priced his beautiful beats at an affordable price for funding. It's true that, for an upcoming artist, it's hard to collect huge funds to step forward in his musical journey. He gets success from it and establishes himself as an upcoming and established producer and rappers. "I assume people are contacting me. Lots of people reach out to me, and they would like to do the work. That's possibly the best indicator. Sufficient people recognize me locally and worldwide too. I think that might be the achievement in my musical career." Jay said

Stacks began rapping in 2016 and become famous for his great work. There was a small incident behind the late start. In early 2015 numerous label wants to sign the young talented producer. But there were high competitions. The most labels told the young producer to enhance his talents along with other art as songwriting, DJing or even rapping. He thinks about all options and decides to the rapping because he is always rapping, but never felt the best for vocal tracks. With the support of his friends, he started to rapping and get the best success on it. According to him "I don't care if anyone knows who I am so long as my music is listened to. As long as folks identify - there's no much better experience than somebody providing you with an excellent review, for instance, or if someone identifies how hard it's to do it. It's quite difficult to make music, to create top quality music. So I desire to be known worldwide in terms of Jay Stacks. You don't need to see my face, and you don't need to know who I am as a particular person. As long as you realize and enjoy my music, which is my goal." At this time the great producer started shows and continue to his music journey.
