The analysts forecast the Global Community Cloud market to grow at a CAGR of 36.11 percent over the period 2014-2019.

Community clouds are cloud-based services that are customized to accomplish the needs of a business community. Cloud-based services are limited to a specific group of customers such as the Government, Healthcare, and Media or Public sectors. Community cloud services are multitenant model with shared computer resources, which provide managed infrastructure and platform facility with provisioning capabilities. Community cloud services offer almost similar advantages as that of a private cloud, but with a lower cost and better security than public private cloud.
