Offshore Web Developer – Launched and All Set to Serve Dedicated Resource Hiring Needs Worldwide

Offshore Web Developer comes with dedicated professionals and technology experts backed by well-appointed development processes and practices.

JAIPUR, RAJASTHAN, INDIA, December 9, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Offshore Web Developer – the highly awaited offshore hiring platform is live and ready to attend all modern business resource hiring needs. With business-focused pricing models and binding resource engagement options, OWD is a one-stop solution to all web and mobile skill acquisition needs.

Going by the fact that businesses increasingly need better reach and exposure with finding and hiring resources, OWD stays highly relevant to the current development scenarios.

However,this is not for the first time any such web platform has been launched. But the fine resource detailing and features OWD comes with makes it uniquely valuable and resourceful to users. Based on a proven offshore development model, the platform leverages agile methods backed by prolific technology skill set and practices arraying across dedicated hiring solutions. Further, well-defined processes, flawless communication tools and a pool of highly qualified and trained professionals make it claim a reputable presence in the domain.

On being asked about the thought behind the product, Executive Director – Offshore Web Developer said, "The idea behind this product is to set open offshore hiring opportunities to businesses and head-hunters referring global standards, providing lucrative service options to suit their cost-benefit preferences.

Adding further he said "Our offshore web development hiring model is all about helping them to commit to their development needs effectively and that's what make us deliver a sense of hiring delight to businesses of all size, type and value. And to do this effectively we have all plans and perspectives in place to help them benefit from our services."

Commenting on the industry-wide scenario, the Operations Head from the agency said "In the last few years there has been a drastic shift in the way businesses approach solutions. And with that change in how businesses choose to reach value they are facing different challenges recognizing and accomplishing their resource needs. With Offshore Web Developer, our idea is to keep it flexible and affordable for them offering ingenious resource hiring options, with custom solutions to fit in with their niche staffing needs."Well, which also seems more of the vision with which they started.

Talking more about what's unique – the website comes with exclusive price estimation tool (they call Budget Planner) allowing users to calculate savings on their projects. Here, picking from different resource parameters to suit your time and quality preferences you get to interactively calculate savings – dynamically selecting resource values and hiring options to suit your offshore staffing needs.

The technologies they are serving now span across iOS, Android, PHP, Magento, WordPress and DotNet– with more than 200 dedicated developers on board. With project management tools like HubStaff, GitLab and Jira the team maneuvers proficiency at all levels from project initiation to delivery.

At the core, Offshore Web Developer comes with dedicated professionals and technology experts backed by well-appointed development processes and practices. And, with all that combining with great service value, OWD looks to nail it completely. And time shall better reveal how!

To know more about Offshore Web Developer please visit: www.offshorewebdeveloper.com

About Offshore Web Developer

Offshore Web Developer is a full-service offshore development company offering dedicated resource hiring solutions across different technology and service verticals.

Vipin Jain
Offshore Web Developer
+1-310-933-5465
email us here

This press release can be viewed online at: http://www.einpresswire.com