Market Research Future

The global mechanized irrigation market has seen a significant growth in the past few years. Rising population and continuously increasing demand for food are playing a vital role in the growth of this market worldwide. Mechanized irrigation helps in significantly reducing the wastage of water. Owing to this reason, the demand for this equipment has risen in the agricultural sector. Improving the crop quality, government support and advanced technology act as major driving factors. On the other hand, the higher cost of installation, daily maintenance and other are hindering the growth.
