

Travelsafer's Xmas gift to you

To celebrate a great year the company Travelsafer are offering their digital tire gauge at ridiculously low prices to help save lives on the roads this Xmas.

LOS ANGELES, USA, December 10, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Travelsafer are proud to have reached thousands of American citizens helping them keep loved ones safe while travelling our roads in sometimes treacherous conditions. Properly inflated tires improve their fuel efficiency by 3.3 percent allowing them to save up to 11 cents per gallon at the pump and at the same time, reduce tire wear.

Since the Travelsafer digital tire pressure gauge was released this time last year, it has received over 550 positive reviews on Amazon which has caused it to climb the Best Sellers Rank for Automotive Accessories.

The Xmas holiday break is almost upon us.

With the National Highway and Traffic Safety Administration collision statistics showing that over 30,000 individuals lose their life each year in traffic accidents across USA, Travelsafer is urging drivers to pay careful attention to road safety this Xmas. Tires under inflated by 25 percent or more, are 3 times more likely to be cited as critical events in the pre-crash phase.

A spokesperson for Travelsafer says, “If you think a car fitted with a tire pressure monitoring system negates the need to check tire pressures, you are mistaken. Tire pressures may drop well below proper inflation risking poor contact with the road long before the TPMS warning light comes on. The TPMS light only comes on when the tire pressure gets too low or too high.”

Young drivers often don't realize the risk of low tire pressures

Travelsafer

“Young drivers are often less familiar with the vehicles they are driving and don't realize the risks of low tire pressures particularly when cornering. Tire problems in the pre-crash phase are more significant than chance. It is likely that inexperienced drivers and drivers not familiar with the vehicles they are driving pay less attention to tires and tire pressure.”

With the holiday period approaching Travelsafer is offering their digital tire pressure gauge at never seen before discount prices. A perfect gift to help educate young drivers to take the time to check their tire pressures before venturing out in the wet this Xmas.
