Private equity & Early Stage Investment Fund hDock42 Buys Stake in Orbis Avia; aircraft manufacturing startup which is now production ready with 1st airplane

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM , December 12, 2016 /EINPresswire.com/ -- hDock42 Ltd., the innovative hybrid investment fund and global commercial innovation scaling platform, recently purchased stake in Orbis Avia, a Czech Republic-based aircraft manufacturing startup, furthering Orbis Avia's mission of expanding and scaling on an international level.

Robust multipurpose aircraft

A general purpose aircraft manufacturer, Orbis Avia is set to release their first aircraft model, the Praga Alfa. The Praga Alfa, now available for ordering, will launch in 2017 and has been specifically designed to cost far less than competitors on the market while still maintaining a strong focus on technological advances and low operational costs. Their new partnership with hDock42 Ltd ensures that Orbis Avia will be able to expand internationally into under-targeted market spaces, such as Europe, Australia and Latin America. There are several Praga Alfa options targeting special interest users such as the medical industry.

Today, almost one month since our entry into Orbis Avia we can announce that the first three aircrafts were sold with delivery dates in 2017.
