SwipeClock Wins Technology Excellence Award for Best Advance in Time and Labor Management

"SwipeClock is honored to win the award for Best Advance in Time and Labor Management for our intelligent Workforce Management Clock," said Coleman Barney, CEO of SwipeClock. "Our sole focus is to stay one step ahead of our customers' expectations as they manage their diverse workforces. This is an award that all of our employees should be proud to receive for recognition of their hard work in developing the industry's most innovative workforce management solutions."

"We congratulate our Technology Award winners, and also thank them for leading the way in designing and utilizing technologies that empower organizations to enhance – and in some cases transform – their organizations," said Rachel Cooke, Chief Operating Officer of Brandon Hall Group and head of the awards program. "Our research shows that Human Capital Management technology is a primary driver of innovation, and our award-winning organizations serve as models of success."

Winners of the Technology Excellence Awards are selected after undergoing a rigorous judging process. An international panel of independent industry experts, and Brandon Hall Group senior analysts and executive leadership team evaluated the entries. The judging was based on design of the solution, functionality, usability, innovation, and overall measurable benefits.
