

Launch Yourself on Every Wave, Wear ONDA - The One Of A Kind, Stackable Rings

After introducing the unique BA-LENA (whale) necklace, Italian jewelry artist Maddalena Bearzi launches yet another of her ocean-inspired pieces: the ONDA rings

MARINA DEL REY, CALIFORNIA, USA, January 26, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- To express the ebb and flow of life, Maddalena Bearzi has created the wave ("ONDA" in the language of the designer) ring. A single ONDA ring is a jewelry statement itself, but these rings create elegant ocean swells when combined together in the same or different metals.

The imaginative and unique craftsmanship of this nature-inspired designer – who is also a marine biologist and published author – lists exclusive names such as RTH (recently featured in the New York Times and GQ) and art museum shops among retailers carrying her line. Her work has also been displayed in galleries and recently showcased in Dornob, Gioiellis and Designboom.

Other handmade jewelry by this designer - such as the Aria, Pianeta and Terra collections or her innovative textile pieces - can be found in her online shop at <http://www.maddalenabearzi.com>. Each piece – always inspired by a natural theme - bears a unique, Italian name - a refreshing alternative to mass made products. The artisan jewelry collections include rings, earrings, necklaces, bracelets and many unisex designs that accommodate a range of personal styles and budgets.

“A deep respect for nature has been the inspiration for my life’s work as a biologist and writer. This passion is now also being channeled into new forms of self-expression via jewelry making” says the designer

About the Designer - Maddalena Bearzi is not only an Italian jewelry artist, but also a renowned marine biologist and President of the non-profit organization Ocean Conservation Society. As a scientist and author, she has traveled extensively for over 20 years studying wild dolphins and other animals and learning new ways to express herself. She has published two books, hundreds of scientific and popular articles and is currently a National Geographic official blogger. Maddalena began to pursue her passion for jewelry craftsmanship on her own, and later studied metalsmithing at the University of California, Los Angeles. She has learned techniques from master silversmiths and jewelers Gordon Wainwright and Harold O'Connor.
