Quote Beating Plumbing & Heating Ltd has released a free report on Investment for Tradespeople: Top Industries UK Tradesmen Should be Investing in Right Now.

SHREWBURY, SHROPSHIRE, UNITED KINGDOM, January 26, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Quote Beating Plumbing & Heating Ltd has today released a free report titled: "Top Industries UK Tradesmen Should be Investing in Right Now". This report aims to provide the reader with an overview of industries to invest in during uncertain economic times. It also aims to explain why UK tradespeople considering investing in their own businesses need to consider this very carefully at this time. The reason given for that is because there may be a UK economic downturn in 2017, caused by the economic uncertainties surrounding the UK Brexit negotiations. Although people want to be entrepreneurial it may be best not to invest in expanding their own business now.

The report has been made openly available and at no cost by Quote Beating Plumbing & Heating Ltd. It's available to the general public, thought leaders within the plumbers in Shrewsbury UK market and anyone with an interest in Investment Options for Tradespeople.

The report was also written with a specific focus on plumbing business-people because IPPTS Associates, author of the report, believes.

Steve Last commenting on behalf of the company said:

"economic change can occur so rapidly that, while applauding the idea of investing in their own businesses, for UK business now is not going to be a good time to extend their internal financial commitment."

"Ourselves, and our collaborator at QuoteBeating.co.uk felt that producing and publicizing this report would be the best way to help our fellow business people avoid this potential investment error."

When asked about why they released the report at this time, Steve Last, Principal at IPPTS Associates said:

"It might seem so obvious for our local small-business tradespeople (like the Shrewsbury Plumbers in our area), who at last have some cash to be able to invest in themselves using their 2016 profits, to do just that and expand. What can be bad about them investing now in their own businesses, they think. But, this lacks a wider perspective. IPPTS Associates simply explains why it makes more sense, if investing now, to look at industries other than plumbing and heating, bathroom, and kitchen installation, to put their money into. Other industries, described in the report, would make much better investment targets as IPPTS Associates say in the report. That's because, in the event of an economic downturn in the UK, those industries will be much more able to weather-out economic downturns. The local tradesmen should hold on to their hard-earned money for now, and only invest it in their own business, when the Brexit outlook has become much more certain."
