

Psychic Kristine Scott of Intuitive Connections to be Featured on CUTV News Radio

HUDSON, WISCONSIN, USA, February 6, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Hudson, WI – Our struggles in life are often the result of not being who we truly are. With guidance and understanding everyone can discover their true identity and lead a life of purpose for the highest good of all.

Kristine Scott is a multi-dimensional intuitive guide and healer and the founder of Intuitive Connections. She works with individuals who want to understand their experiences, and invite joy into their lives through compassion for self and others.

“Intuitive means that I connect to something outside of myself, whether it’s my higher source or many higher sources, including angels, ascended masters and those souls who have crossed over,” says Kristine. “I work with a client’s spirit to provide information that will bring clarity and understanding to their life and relationships.”

As a child Kristine thought it was normal to see, hear and feel things that were not physically present. She believed that everyone had the ability to see and hear things that were not verbalized or about to happen. Kristine has since dedicated her life to working with others who are looking for healing, clarity and direction.

“Sometimes I see people once, or every few weeks for years, but I avoid becoming their ‘guru’ or their only answer,” says Scott. “Ideally, I help each person to discover their own intuitive gifts, so that whatever skills and abilities they possess are nurtured and embraced. The reason I’m here is to help them find their own answers to better navigate life with grace and ease. I’m a bridge to self-awareness.”

Although Kristine always knew she was a gifted and natural born psychic, it took a major life event for her to passionately claim these abilities to heal herself and help others on their spiritual paths. In 2009, Kristine was diagnosed with Stage 3 Breast Cancer.

“I discovered the tumor in my right breast,” recalls Kristine. “As soon as I felt it, I heard this really loud voice say, 'Honey, this is very serious. You're either going to do the work or you're checking out.

Looking back on the experience, Kristine says she now realizes her illness was a course correction from Spirit and a blessing in disguise.

"The first thing many people think when they hear the word cancer is a coffin and certain death, but the diagnosis of cancer for me is never a tragedy. It was just a fact, another experience among many. In a big way it forced me to question long-held beliefs about myself and my place in the world.

Kristine recognized that her abilities were tools given to her to complete her soul's purpose.

"I'm most proud that fear did not own me. I quit being afraid of who I truly am, or the amazing gifts and abilities I was born with. I'm no longer concerned if someone likes me. Loving myself and liking who I am is enough. I'm proud to say I showed up in a big way! Says Scott. Being true to myself creates joy every day. This is my life's work and my soul's purpose. This joy and acceptance of self is possible for each and every client I see."

CUTV News Radio will feature Kristine Scott in an interview with Doug Llewelyn on February 8th at 4pm EST.
