"For decades, there have been credit repair and credit "fixing" companies, but they all charge ridiculous fees and produce shoddy results," said Bonner who is known as the 'Business Consultant to the Stars.' "Credit Accelerator is not only the most cost effective, but has been certified as the most effective way to boost your credit giving you financial freedom."

When it comes to improving credit, no one does it better than Credit Accelerator. You might wonder if it's credit repair, fixing or building. The answer is that it just works. Accelerating your credit is new. It's a two-prong approach of removing negatives while at the same time boosting the positives by using the letter of the law as defined by the Federal Credit Reporting Act. "Every step of the Credit Accelerated program is in full compliance with this law," said Bonner.

Under the FCRA, both the credit reporting company and the information provider (the person, company, or organization that provides information about to any one of the three national credit reporting companies - Experian, TransUnion, and Equifax) are responsible for correcting inaccurate or incomplete information in your report. This is one of several examples of how Credit Accelerator takes advantage of all your rights under this law.

The Federal Trade Commission states, "Credit scoring systems are complex and vary among creditors or insurance companies and for different types of credit or insurance. If one factor changes, your score may change — but improvement generally depends on how that factor relates to others the system considers. Only the business using the system knows what might improve your score under the particular model they use to evaluate your application." Credit Accelerator removes the mystery out of the credit scoring system.
