Prior to founding Dev Solutions, Mahadevan was the Chief Strategy Officer (CSO) at NetApp, responsible for leading their business strategy and identifying additional market and product opportunities. As CSO he led the company's international strategic planning and business development initiatives including mergers and acquisitions. His executive leadership role encompassed global responsibility for managing both strategic alliances and partnership teams.

“We are extremely pleased to welcome Vic to our advisory board,” said Ravi Goyal, Co-Founder, President and CEO, Sureline Systems, Inc. “His deep knowledge of the enterprise software market coupled with his strong engineering, business development and marketing background will prove highly beneficial as we extend our market leading product offerings and enter new markets, taking the company to its next level.”

Prior to his role at NetApp, Mahadevan served as vice president of marketing for LSI Corporation. He has held senior leadership positions at numerous global high-tech companies including Deeya energy, BMC Software, Compaq and Maxxan Systems. Vic earned a degree in Mechanical Engineering from the Indian Institute of Technology and holds an MBA in Marketing and an MS in Engineering from the University of Iowa.
