Market Highlights:

Robust demand across wide range of applications including traditional stuffing recipe, pizza, pastry and other bakery products is driving the sourdough market. Advancement in processing technologies, inclusion of various ingredients and catering to meet niche applications like low-fat, gluten-free and other healthy bakery foods is also supporting the growth of the market.

Sourdough has lower bread deterioration rates, which has increased the demand for sourdough. As other bakery products are deteriorated in short span of period, sourdough products can be easily stored for a longer time. Tangy flavor of sourdough imparted to the bread, has been appreciated by many consumers worldwide which is growing traction for sourdough derived products. Whole grain sourdough products have higher demands because consumers are aware of the health benefits. Hence, global sourdough market is expected to grow at CAGR over 5% post the year 2022.
