Comparing these prices to other competitors in the market, the MoreRFID plastic chips card are about 13% more affordable. Of course, this is for card's chips with the same specifications and have passed the strict QC control process that conform to the RF interface ISO standards.

About MoreRFID Payment System

As a company that offers a cost competitive pricing model for the custom plastic cards, MoreRFID has put all measures in place to reduce unnecessary expenses. These include:

-A reliable shipping process

MoreRFID works with all its B2B customers across the globe to ensure they adopt an affordable product shipping process. The company uses the UPS, EMS, FedEx, TNT and DHL. The shipping time may be 3 to 5 days. All these reduce importing costs.

-Obtaining free samples

B2B clients will only pay for the freight cost for shipping the free samples. However, for custom design, a client can pay $50, which is refundable for bulk orders. Currently, MoreRFID MOQ is about 100 pcs.

-Flexible payment schedule

The unit price of custom plastic cards varies depending on the quantity, material, size, thickness, type of chip, packing requirements and type of printing.

MoreRFID accepts a 30% payment after confirmation of the design, with the remaining 45% before delivery, The final 25% can payment after confirm receiving. Alternatively, clients can pay 100%.

The payment methods include the T/T or PayPal. MoreRFID long-term clients can also benefit from better and flexible payment terms.

Adopting flexible payment and shipping process reduces shipping cost significantly. MoreRFID uses modern technology that helps reduce the manufacturing costs.

This is alongside the 1 year warranty for every MoreRFID custom plastic card chip. The warranty period, strict QC and ISO compliance all help to instill customer confidence.
