

Bad News for Criminals

A mom's desire to keep her family safe makes it easy for homeowners, renters and travelers to protect themselves against intruders who could otherwise walk in.

SWEET HOME, OREGON, USA, March 7, 2017
/EINPresswire.com/ -- Bad News for Criminals!

Criminals know all about bump keys as shown on TV News. They're sold online and open deadbolts and passage locks nearly as fast as a working key. If you rent passkeys and pass cards are misused every day and everywhere.

An Oregon mom took on the task and invented Super-Grip-Lock an adjustable deadbolt Strap that locks-down the deadbolt handle and stops anyone from unlocking that door:

The National Locksmith an industry lock authority since 1929 reported:

"Even when using a working key and a pair of pliers the key broke but the deadbolt remained locked"- and summarized- "There is an unlimited potential for customers and the $10 retail is definitely right."

Police Report:

Lt. Bryon 23-year police veteran wrote LEAA a coalition of law-enforcement experts, "This Strap is a Godsend for the traveling public and those who live in rentals." It instantly turns a deadbolt into a privacy lock that cannot be opened with any key.

The International Association of Police Chiefs:

The IAPC fighting crime since 1893 never endorses any product but they introduced Super-Grip-Lock to law enforcement in the Police Chief Magazine.

The International Electronic Retailers Association Award:

The ERA represents 450 companies in 45 nations awarded Super-Grip-Lock- "One of the Ten Most Marketable Products of the Year Award."

A mom's desire to keep her family safe has made it easy for homeowners, renters and travelers to stop intruders from entering their home.

Super-Grip-Lock is bad news for criminals. So inexpensive anyone can afford to protect themselves and why Police calls it a Godsend. See it work at www.supergriplock.com.
