

National New and Used Vehicle Finding Service Launches on New .Cars Internet Address

Vehicle shopping service brought to market by relatively unknown digital advertising agency.

COMMACK, NEW YORK (NY), USA, March 6, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- NEW YORK, NY - Are you in the market for a newer vehicle? If you are like most people, you absolutely dread car shopping at dealerships where salespeople can be intimidating or downright pushy. This is due to most dealership sales people working, by large part, on commissions, so, getting you to sign your life away on a new set of wheels is their top priority – and most will do anything to prevent you from walking out the door; so much for shopping-around.

Meet Find.cars, a new vehicle shopping service brought to market by a relatively unknown digital automotive company out of Long Island New York called Long Island Media Inc.

Find.cars, is a vehicle listing service that facilitates both new and used car transactions between dealers and consumers. The company is basing its new national platform off of a localized service specializing in used cars namely LIUsedCars.com, prominently for southeastern New Yorkers.

Using either of these services you are able to browse thousands of used cars in specified regions of the United States. The difference is one is localized – and one is very much national.

“LIUsedCars.com focuses only on vehicles in the 'Montauk to Manhattan' regional area while Find.cars helps across the nation. We've got a model, it's built, it's working here on Long Island, and it'll work elsewhere across the nation” said Chief Executive Officer John Colascione.

Both services are relatively new, but growing in popularity. The company released a press release last month touting 444 percent growth in the number of users of the service.

Consumers looking for new and used cars can visit the new services website address at www.Find.cars and regardless of where they visit across the nation, users are immediately presented with vehicles for sale at dealerships across the US. The company, which owns and operates the web-only based business, is planning on utilizing this new website address to capture users who are looking to “find cars” online via typical used cars searches in addition to its memorability via its catchy name. An equally-catchy tag line is also riding back seat pending federal registration, “Why Search When You Can Find?”TM
