

ISHM Vice Chair, Cory Worden, Receives Prestigious Award

Cory Worden receives the 2017 Safety Professional of the Year (SPY) Award for service to the Healthcare Practice Specialty of the ASSE!

HOUSTON, TX, USA, March 13, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- YUMA, AZ, USA, March 13, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Cory Worden, Vice Chair of the Institute for Safety and Health Management (ISHM) Board of Directors has received the ASSE 2017 ASSE Healthcare Practice Safety Professional of the Year. Previously Cory was awarded the ISHM Safety Professional of the year AND recognized as an NSC Rising Star.

As a Board Member then Vice Chair of ISHM Cory has worked on multiple committees making each better and more relevant. He is a frequent contributor to the ISHM Newsletter with timely articles on EHS Management.

John Principe III Chair of the ISHM Board of Directors has this to say "Cory is the epitome of a safety professional.

He strives to make everything he is involved in better. He is a true asset to our profession and our organization. The ISHM family congratulates Cory for this special recognition and thanks him for his continued dedication and support to our organization and to the safety profession".

Larry Curtis, ISHM CEO, added "It has been my pleasure to work with Cory for several years. He makes everyone around him better."

In his typical understated humility Cory's reaction to the award was, "I was very surprised and honored when I was told I had been named the ASSE Healthcare Practice Specialty Safety Professional of the Year. Like everyone in the HCPS, my intention is always to help develop and share best practices to increase safe behaviors and conditions in the healthcare environment to make it safer for employees, patients, visitors and everyone involved. It's very humbling to be recognized for my role in this effort."

Congratulations Cory!
