

Level Office purchases Downtown Kansas City building

KANSAS CITY, MO, UNITED STATES, March 21, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Coworking company Level Office is expanding into Downtown Kansas City with the purchase of 1301 Oak St. The Chicago-based company acquired the eight-floor building on March 9 and plans to renovate it to provide modern and affordable workspace. Pre-leasing is already underway for private offices and coworking memberships.

"Small business growth in Kansas City is accelerating, and we at Level Office are thrilled to offer local business owners and entrepreneurs professional, flexible, and budget-friendly workspace, all within a beautiful building," said Bill Bennett, Founder of Level Office.

Plans for the building include private offices and communal lounge areas with amenities such as an espresso bar, direct fiber internet, local beer on tap, and on-site administrative support. With pricing of $199 a month for coworking memberships and starting at $399 for private offices, Level Office seeks to provide small businesses and entrepreneurs with high-caliber amenities that are typically only available to the largest companies, but at a budget price.

Built in 1940, the 44,860-square-foot building features oversized windows, a red brick exterior, and an attached parking garage. By offering state-of-the-art offices within historic structures, Level Office honors the architecturally significant while outfitting buildings with cutting-edge technology and inspiring amenities for members.

"We are impressed by Kansas City's supportive environment for small businesses," Bennett said. "The city's strong economic growth and diverse, creative community make it an ideal place for Level Office members to work."
