PUNE, INDIA, March 27, 2017 /
EINPresswire.com/ -- Global Laboratory Information Management System Market

LIMS automates a part of the laboratory system and can be of great importance in integrating laboratory operations like sub-processes, consolidating the results of tests, and thus speeding up the whole process of laboratory operations. LIMS can save a considerable amount of time and improve the level of data access for all stakeholders of any given project. LIMS software manages and tracks samples during testing and automates the laboratory processes. It also produces high-quality data in less time in contrast to the traditional laboratory management system.

The analysts forecast the global LIMS market to grow at a CAGR of 8.94% during the period 2017-2021.
