Landscaping refers to any activity that beautifies vacant land, exteriors or interiors of a building, or public spaces such as parks and gardens. This beautification can be achieved through modifying features (including flora and fauna), construction of terrains and water bodies, and artificial lighting.

The global landscaping and gardening services market comprises both full-service providers that take up end-to-end activities from designing a landscape to construction, to maintenance and irrigation, and pure-play contractors that specialize in any one of these services. Key players also include raw material and equipment suppliers.
