

FICO Numen and Identity Fraud Expert David Howe Seeks Meeting with Ivanka Trump after Security Clearance Announcement

SubscriberWise founder and Credit Czar Howe is prepared to discuss sensitive subject matter involving child identity protection and the national credit system

WEST PALM BEACH, FL, USA, April 3, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ --

SubscriberWise, the nation's largest issuing CRA for the communications industry and the leading advocate for children victimized by identity fraud, announced today the personal appeal from company founder and U.S. Credit Czar David Howe to Ivanka Trump. The appeal includes an invitation to meet following the anticipated National Security Clearance announced for Ivanka Trump. Howe, who has uncovered a number of the most complex child and financial crimes the U.S.A. has ever known or contemplated, is seeking to advance child identity theft protections with the fellow child-advocate and daughter of U.S.A. President Donald J. Trump.

Global Credit Czar and Child Protector David Howe

“A few months ago, I provided law enforcement and the media overwhelming proof of child victimization and theft of telecommunications service from CenturyLink and MCTV,” confirmed David Howe, SubscriberWise founder. The case was sent for prosecution but the defendant decided to take a rain check and did not appear for criminal arraignment, even after the state of Ohio reduced the felony charge to a minor misdemeanor. The felony charge was reduced because prosecutors determined that the possibility of the child testifying would further harm the young victim,” Howe added.

The goal is for Ivanka to make good use of the taxpayers' investment in this new security clearance.”

“Unfortunately, with this particularly egregious case, the boy was repeatedly victimized over 10 years so a more formal form of justice had to be pursued,” Howe emphasized.

“Sadly, and the reason for Credit Czar's urgent appeal to Ivanka, the overwhelming majority of these child victims never have an advocate or a voice. They're left to cry and anguish alone while creditors, banks, and lending intuitions inadvertently and unknowingly victimize the innocent day after day. Of course, this should come as no surprise because the FTC, the CFPB, and other federal agencies have mandated Red Flag compliance at the same time Congress has turned a blind eye to the child identity theft epidemic making victimization a frequent daily occurrence.

“And that’s why it’s urgent that Ivanka – armed with her new U.S.A. Security Clearance – meet with Credit Czar Howe at her earliest opportunity.

“The goal is for Ivanka to make good use of the taxpayers’ investment in this new security clearance. And to that end, as a fellow taxpayer and child advocate, I have reasonable expectations for the young professional and mother,” Howe continued. “Since the government has decided to expend tax dollars to investigate and ultimately sanction a valuable and expensive National Security Clearance, then I expect the recipient to listen and to learn about the serious concerns that threaten our children daily.

“Frankly, I’m asking Ivanka to carefully consider the technology and educational solutions we’ve been advocating as we work relentlessly every day to protect babies and children. Then I would respectfully request that she take this information, along with the common-sense technology solutions (<http://www.viodi.tv/2016/04/28/child-identity-theft/>) to her father, President Trump, and to any others in the Administration who are capable of solving problems.

“From my perspective, it’s really not too much to ask,” Howe insisted.

“Although none of the information I intend to provide is top secret, it does concern the financial and credit system. However, it can certainly be both complex and elaborate, to say the least. Therefore, it’s best exposed to an individual who has been vetted as a trusted source with some of America’s most sensitive information.

“In other words, except for a few FBI field agents, a handful of judges and prosecutors, several legislative correspondents, and a couple of privileged sources and colleagues, I have never discussed the internal workings of the credit system with those without a need or legal authority to know.

“But now that Ivanka will officially meet this high threshold, it’s crucial for us to talk,” Credit Czar Howe concluded.
