Tori V is Hollywood's New Blonde Bombshell”

Tori V's impending superstardom is a far cry from her humble beginnings. Her family was on welfare. Her parents split up when she was barely a toddler. But even at a young age, Tori

V understood that she would have to work twice as hard to realize her dreams of being in the entertainment industry. Then, at the age of 13, Tori's biological father passed away. Devastated but not deterred, Tori used every opportunity to showcase her talents. She was voted "Most Likely to Become Famous" by her middle school class and by her senior year in high school, she was voted "Most Likely to Become an Actress."

It may be hard to look at this blonde beauty with the supermodel good looks and imagine her working as a forklift driver at the tire warehouse "Maxxis International" in Rancho Cucamonga, CA. But that's exactly what she did for over 4 years after high school to support herself. It was not long after that Tori booked the lead role in the independent teen thriller Charlie Charlie which lead to a serendipitous meeting with Tony Mercedes which ultimately landed her in the recording studio with Ceelo Green and a new label deal with A.B.I. (Artist Best Interest) The new independent record label A.B.I. is owned by Mercedes and real estate giant / entrepreneur, Nick Mao.
