

'MILENA HANDMADES'

FEATURED IN SOLO EXHIBITION AT ART EXPO 2017, April 21-24, 2017

NEW YORK, NEW YORK, USA, April 19, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The 'Handmade' Collection by fearless Cuban, Havana-born artist Milena Martinez Pedrosa will be featured at Pier 94's Art Expo 2017, in a solo exhibit along with new works in the series.

The Milena "Handmades" - a striking portfolio of oil-on-canvas paintings with social and political imagery deepened via relevant newspaper-collage placement - made a distinct impression at Art Basel Miami in 2016. The "Handmades" will now be exhibited in the heart of New York City's arts community during Art Expo's 39th year.

"I'm excited to bring the "Handmades" right to Manhattan, as I get so much from interacting with art enthusiasts and seeing their reaction to my work, firsthand," said Pedrosa. "The pieces have taken on even more relevance in the last year or so, and speak to my perception of Cuba's 21st Century journey in the Americas and beyond."

"You see plainly that Milena's 'drawn hands' are simply some of the best representations of the form ever committed to canvas," said Michael Miller, the art dealer and gallerist behind MMG.
