PUNE, INDIA, April 21, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Global Automated Guided Vehicle Market is projected to expand at a CAGR of 10.06% over the forecast period to reach US$8.706 billion by 2022. Automated Guided Vehicles (AGVs) are typically used where a high volume of repetitive movement of material is required without any or little human interference. Rising concerns regarding workers' safety coupled with stringent government regulations for the same is driving the demand for automated guided vehicles across various industry verticals globally. Growing warehousing and logistics industry is further fuelling the demand for AGVs in order to improve material tracking with computerized vehicles as well as reliable delivery of raw materials from warehouses to manufacturing units. In Europe, the demand for AGVs is escalating on account of rising labor costs while APAC Automatic Guided Vehicle market is anticipated to witness the fastest growth due to rapid industrialization, growing e-commerce sector, and increasing investment in infrastructure.
