

Alan's Collision Center Selects Axalta Coating Systems, Till Paint As Auto Body Repair Supply Chain Partners

Axalta to Supply Coating and Finishing Products for Collision Repair and Till Paint Will Manage the Relationship at Alan's Collision Center in NE Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, PA, USA, April 25, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Alan's Collision Center in NE Philadelphia since 1975 announced today selection of Axalta Coating Systems (NYSE: AXTA), a leading global supplier of liquid and powder coatings, and Till Paint Company, an auto body jobber founded in 1888 and headquartered in Woodbury Heights, N.J. as its suppliers of coating and finishing products for auto body repair.

Till Paint brings specialty expertise to the auto body repair industry and is managing Alan's Collision Center's paint and coating product usage, technician training, compliance, efficiency and economies of scale, and on-time delivery.

We continually seek supply chain partners that can raise the bar on product quality, professionalism, customer safety, and scale. We found that in Axalta and Till Paint.”

“It's rare that a collision center switches paint and coating providers, and we couldn't be more pleased that Alan's Collision Center put its trust in Till Paint to manage finishing aspects of auto body repair using Axalta's coatings,” said Mike Ross, auto body repair consultant with Till Paint, the 129-year-old family business.

Alan's Collision Center, an independent, single-owner auto body repair business, switched paint and coating companies seeking a higher level of professionalism.

“Alan's Collision is a service business, and we continually seek supply chain partners that can raise the bar on product quality, improved auto body repair and safety for our customers,” said Jim Pfau, General Manager of Alan's Collision Center, NE Philadelphia, Penn. “We know that Axalta Coating Systems' products are leading edge in our industry, and Till Paint brings another notch of expertise to our business as we continue our growth plans.”
