

Checkissuing Renews SOC2 and HIPAA Certification

LITTLETON, CO, USA, May 4, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Checkissuing renews its SOC 2, Type 1 certification to contiguously meet the security and availability standards established by its Service Organization Controls (SOC), as well as renewing their HIPAA Compliance Certification.

Checkissuing received its SOC 2, Type 1 certification renewal for meeting the security and availability standards established by its Service Organization Controls (SOC). The SOC 2® Report focuses on five trust principles: security, availability, processing integrity, confidentiality, and privacy for service organizations. To achieve the certification, an organization must meet the security principle plus one of the other principles.

"We recognize the concerns, compliance generates for security-conscious businesses, in particular for those working with sensitive healthcare information," said Mark Greenspan, Risk Officer. "With our PCI, SOC2 and HIPAA compliance, these businesses can leverage the robust capabilities of our printing platform, while trusting that customer data is protected with our state of the art security."

The U.S. HIPAA law regulates the use and disclosure of an individual's health information in any format, also known as Protected Health Information (PHI). Checkissuing's HIPAA compliance entails the assurance that a wide range of security and privacy policies are in place. This includes that there is a system that stores audit and report logs, the setup of specific technical, network and transmission security protocols, as well as implementing additional technical safeguards. Moreover, Checkissuing trains all employees on HIPAA policies and assigned an official in-house Privacy Officer and Security Officer.

Obtaining the SOC2 and HIPAA compliance entailed extensive third party auditing of Checkissuing's platform to ensure there were no areas of risk. The auditing will be performed annually in order to maintain compliance.

With this strong focus on security and compliance, Checkissuing is confident they can continue to offer its finest services to any size organization in any industry, ensuring that its customer information is kept private and secure.
