

US Air Force PDSA to speak at the 2nd annual MilSatCom USA

Dr David A. Hardy to explore the importance of SatCom to the warfighters

ARLINGTON, VIRGINIA, USA, May 9, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Dr David Hardy, Associate Deputy Undersecretary of the Air Force (Space), Office of the Under Secretary of the Air Force, United States Air Force, has joined our stellar speaker lineup for SMi Group's 2nd MilSatCom USA event which takes place on June 27 & 28 in Arlington, VA.

A member of the Senior Executive Service, Dr Hardy is responsible for integrating and overseeing all DoD space capabilities and activities, coordinating with the Intelligence Community, and providing support to the Secretary of Defence on space portfolio decisions. He also provides the principal support to the Under Secretary's role as the Headquarters US Air Force focal point for space matters and in coordinating activities across the Air Force space enterprise.

Speaking on Day One of the conference, Dr Hardy will be talking about "The Importance of SatCom to the Warfighter" where he will deliver updates on the Wideband Communications Analysis of Alternatives and explore the integration of commercial and international partners.

Dr Hardy joins a stellar speaker lineup of senior military leaders at the forefront of tactical milsatcom optimisation as well as programme managers and technical directors who create platforms and technologies at the heart of this vital area of defence. This includes key government and military personnel from the US Army, US Air Force, US Department of Defense, US NorthCom, NATO NCIA, DISA, DARPA; as well as key industry experts from Airbus Defence and Space, Hughes Network Systems and more.

A detailed agenda including a full list of speakers and their respective topics can be viewed on www.milsatcom-usa.com/EIN.
