Radiosurgery and Radiotherapy Robotics Market 2017

About Radiosurgery and Radiotherapy Robotics

Radiosurgery is usually an oncologic treatment, which involves removing tumor cells through ionized radiation beams. As part of the surgery, a high dose of radiation beams is aimed at tumors from various orientations in a single sitting, while ensuring that the surrounding healthy tissues receive relatively less radiation. Radiotherapy, which is similar to radiosurgery, uses multiple fractionated doses of radiation to treat the tumor, thus requiring multiple sittings. Both these treatments are non-invasive, (i.e., they do not involve a cut or any contact with the body cavity or mucous membranes).

The analysts forecast the global radiosurgery and radiotherapy robotics market to grow at a CAGR of 6.48% during the period 2017-2021.
