

CAPSTACK WEST PARTNERS WITH EXECUTIVE NEXT PRACTICES FORUM

ENP selects CapStack West as their capital partner - they are a true next practice company

NEWPORT BEACH, CA, UNITED STATES, May 23, 2017

/EINPresswire.com/ -- CapStack West

(<http://www.capstackwest.com>) the developer of a simplified, automated social marketplace for all types of capital for all types of companies is partnering with ENPI (Executive Next Practices Institute) to service the middle market companies that need growth capital.

Your Business Capital Community

“We realize every company needs capital whether it’s debt or equity, throughout their life cycle. And we know that the business capital market is desperate, especially since funding options tend to be siloed into specific equity or debt models. CapStack West, socializes all types of capital, accelerating capital deployment. We consider them truly a next practice.” Scott Hamilton, CEO of ENPI

CapStack West developed a private social community built to automate the process of capital deployment. In addition to inviting over 20,000 capital providers, of all types, the community includes Experts and Services that C-Suite executives demand.

The partnership with ENPI now gives members of ENPI access to all types of funding sources as well as a way to identify strategic acquisitions all in one location. ENPI members receive a significant discount off the one hundred dollar monthly subscription along with the ability to post in the CSW (CapStack West) news feed to update the capital market with highlights. In addition, ENPI gains access to the CSW corporate experts database with over one thousand advisors; valuation, compliance, negotiation, product licensing, corporate structuring etc.

The CSW platform is private; capital requestors are only seen by the matched capital providers. Providers stay private as well, walled off from the constant barrage of calls and emails from requestors. Both have direct access to posting content to bolster their offerings. CapStack West does not charge success fees and members can put their membership on hold once funds are secured. They can reopen their profile, change the type of capital and amount, and raise again and again, throughout their corporate lifecycle.

“Building strong partnerships with associations like ENPI, supports our growth while returning a much needed service to their middle market companies. We are excited by the potential both organizations will receive through our close relationship.” Ken Hubbard, CEO-CapStack West

CapStack West (CSW) is a private social community built specifically to accelerate the deployment of capital for business growth. CSW delivers a true social community experience for companies looking for equity or debt as well as for capital providers deploying all types of funds to companies at all stages of growth. CSW is a subscription platform with no success fees. The platform includes advanced deal management, group and private - video/audio/text chat, calendaring, live news feed, saving articles for later review, experts, services and target advertising.

Executive Next Practices Forum, is an established research and collaboration forum comprised of FORTUNE 5000 C Level and key executive leaders (CEO, COO, CFO, CMO, CIO, HR). The organization meets nationally and internationally to review “first look” innovations in business and leadership strategies. Their unique and highly collaborative sessions are held in a non-solicitation environment to encourage leaders to engage, create and build powerful business relationships. All emerging trends- from Fintech to organizational strategy are examined across functional and industry sectors in order to accelerate innovation, intrapreneurship and investment.
