Aseptic packaging market Information Report by Material (Plastic, Metal, Glass, and Paperboard), By Type , By Application and By Region -Global Forecast To 2022

PUNE, MAHARASHTRA, INDIA, May 23, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Market Highlights

Aseptic packaging is a technique where the contents of the package and the packaging material are sterilized separately. Thereafter, the contents are put in the packages and sealed under a sterilized and temperature controlled environment. The aseptic packaging is a continuous and clean process that takes place in a single space efficient machine.

The major driver for the growth of aseptic packaging market is change in the lifestyle and increasing dependence of consumers on the packaged and pre-cooked food. The growing trend of consumers to shop from the supermarkets and the increased need of storing the packaged foods in supermarkets are also driving the aseptic packaging market.

Market Research Analysis

The market is highly application driven. Pharmaceutical sectors are expected to dominate the aseptic packaging market with the increased adoption of aseptic filling process for pre-filled syringes which helps in ensuring that the shelf life of these pharmaceutical drugs is increased. The pharmaceutical sector uses aseptic packaging for the preservation of sensitive drugs and maintains the nutritional value of products, which in turn helps in growth of the aseptic packaging market.

One of the key drivers for the growth of aseptic packaging market is growth in the packaging industry. The growth in the dairy packaging market and the increase in the use of aseptic packaging for the pharmaceutical products are also contributing to this growth. The benefits provided by aseptic packaging such as longer shelf life and protecting the contents without refrigeration are also contributing to the growth of this market. However the high cost of installation of the plant can hinder the growth of this market.

The increasing demand of ready to consume products such as fruit juices, dairy products and soft drinks are driving the demand of this market. The increase in consumption of fruit juices and energy drinks due to the increase in awareness about the personal health are generating the need of aseptic packaging of beverages. Aseptic packaging also prevents the beverages from spoilage, even without refrigeration.
