WATERFORD, MICHIGAN, USA, May 24, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- A member of the Defense Automotive Technologies Consortium (DATC) and certified as a veteran owned technical staffing solutions company, Contract Professionals, Inc. (CPI) and service disabled veteran owned Synergistic, Inc. have entered into a partnership, in order to position CPI at the epicenter of multiple government defense contracts.

“CPI has 35 years of experience with managing comprehensive CONUS/OCONUS military projects. The CPI team is primed to take their expertise and energy to the next level by engaging in defense contract ventures,” said Jim Cowper, President, CPI. Led by Cowper’s drive to enlarge CPI’s footprint in the United States, CPI continues to strengthen and diversify its defense vertical portfolio, creating strategic alliances at key sites including but not limited to Fort Hood, Fort Gordon, Fort Lewis, Fort Carson, Fort Riley and Huntsville, Alabama.

“We are working to build off the multiple years of experience and knowledge, which CPI brings to the table,” said Andrew M. Stass, CEO, Synergistic Inc. “CPI is positioned extremely well and we anticipate closing multiple opportunities. Our end game is to support CPI in their efforts to recruit and employ veterans on a much larger scale.”

CPI has been recruiting and employing veterans for more than three decades. As CPI continues to grow as a result of their veteran certifications from the Department of Veterans Affairs (VOSB) and the National Veteran Business Development Council (NVBDC), CPI plans to double in size within the next three years.

“We are excited about the opportunity to work with CPI. They are a motivated group of professionals who really put veterans first. We look forward to working with CPI to help veterans get great jobs,” said Jeff Cunningham, Vice President, Business Development, Synergistic, Inc.
