PHILADELPHIA, PA, USA, May 25, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The prestigious law firm of Krasno Krasno & Onwudinjo (KKO) announced today that CEO Jason Krasno, Esq., was once again awarded Super Lawyer status for 2017 for his Workers' Compensation practice.

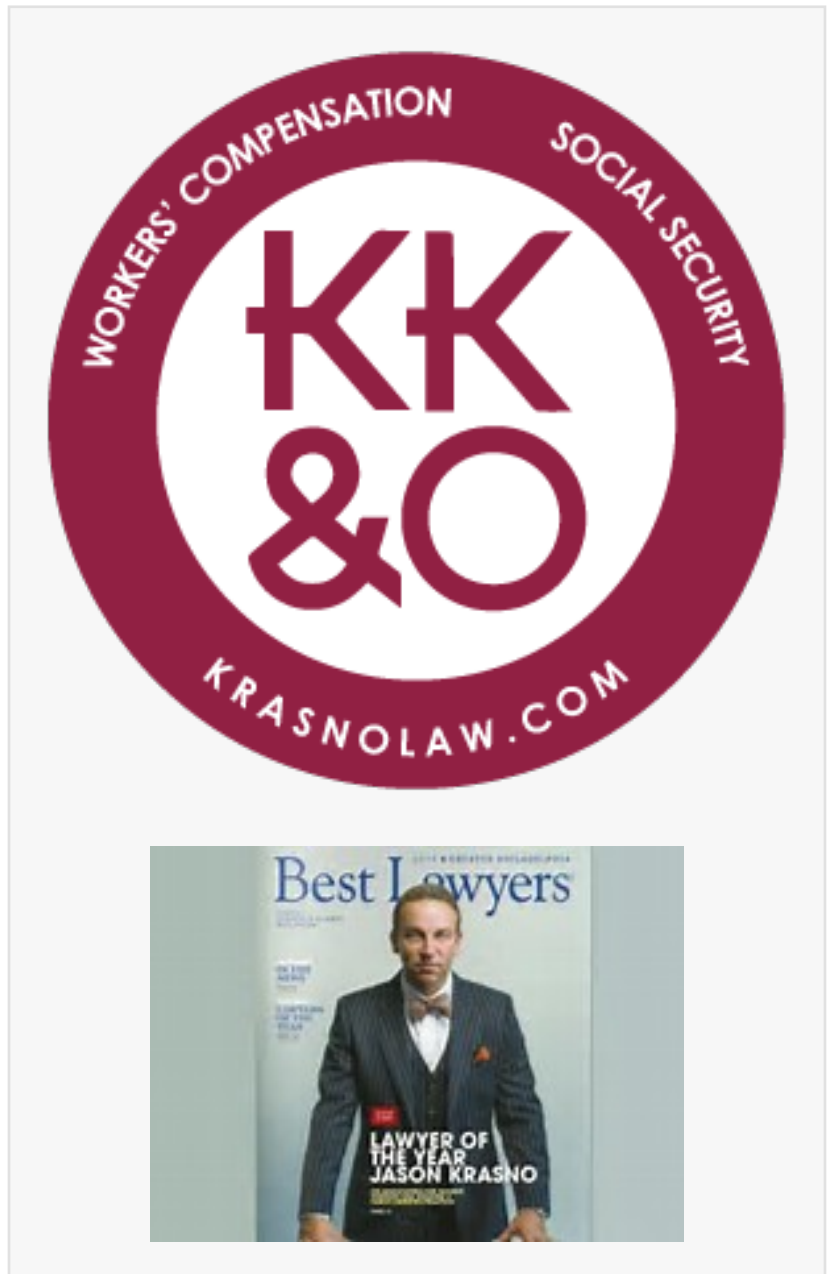

Krasno has won this honor each year for the last 10 years. Krasno has also been bestowed with the Top 100 Super Lawyers for the last three years. In addition to these honors, Krasno has been conferred with Best Lawyers In America status since 2009 and been chosen as Best Lawyer of the Year for 2016.

All of Krasno's awards have been made based on his excellence in the practice of Workers' Compensation law.

The KKO firm was started in 1936 by The Honorable Isadore Krasno who was a workers' compensation Judge for four decades. Judge Krasno's personal philosophy was to protect injured workers that were hurt at work. He presided over thousands of cases while on the bench in Pennsylvania. His son Lester joined the firm and worked his way up to become President. Lester did all of this while still dedicating time to protect workers' that were hurt on the job

In 1999, Lester's son Jason joined the firm bringing the same dedication and zeal that his father and grandfather showed for helping injured workers. "What can I say, I like helping the little guy, and it is in my blood," Krasno stated when asked why he works so hard in his practice.

Today, through the stewardship of the Krasno family and the leadership of Jason Krasno, tens-of-thousands of hurt or injured workers have rightfully been awarded tens-of-millions of dollars to ease their troubles. “When the judge sides with my guy, the person injured on the job,” explained Krasno, “and they receive an award that I know will help them and their family, I cannot express how good I feel.”.

Super Lawyer status is not something new to Jason. He has achieved this award ten times in the past.

“It is an honor to know that I have gained the respect of my peers and that they would nominate me for this award,” Krasno said. Less than 5 percent of practicing attorneys in the state can receive this award.

When asked what makes a Super Lawyer, Krasno said “Our ability, dedication, knowledge, strength, and our promise to keep the tradition set forth by my grandfather and father to treat each client like they are family!”

The KKO firm practices mainly in the areas of Workers’ Compensation and Social Security Disability, which are closely related. Today the firm has 12 offices located strategically throughout Pennsylvania, with sixteen different attorneys willing to dedicate themselves to any case that comes their way.

Pottsville, PA was the founding location and to this day houses about 45 percent of the firm’s staff.

The Krasno, Krasno & Onwudinjo family of attorneys is available for a free consultation regarding your case. If you need help, need a Workers' Comp Attorney or just have questions call KK&O at 877-299-0779 or use the contact link. You will be able to chat with an agent live 24 hours a day.
