BACKGROUND CHECKS

Imagine...working with people who love what they do!

"Every single new hire has to have an I-9 Employment Eligibility Verification completed within 3 days of starting, so having it wrapped into the same system used to evaluate their eligibility for hire makes perfect sense," said Laura Lohnes, Product and Project Strategist with Info Cubic. "The benefits of an electronic Form I-9 versus paper are tremendous. What has historically been a tedious and cumbersome paper driven process becomes extremely user friendly and intuitive. The system ensures all legally required information is captured and notifies employers when something is missing or requires action, such as in the case of an expiring document. It's also flexible enough to provide the ability to make changes at any time, all within the same platform used to background screen the employee originally."

Simultaneously, Info Cubic is releasing its E-Verify® product which can integrate with the electronic I-9 solution for a seamless experience. Lohnes explained, "Our system gathers the information from the electronic I-9 and runs it through E-Verify® automatically for those employers who require it. The system also walks employers through each step required if there are any issues, which can otherwise be somewhat confusing and cause issues for an employer if handled improperly. We maintain a clear audit trail on both the electronic I-9 and E-Verify® to reflect compliance with federal requirements. It couldn't be any simpler!"

Info Cubic strives to serve employers not only through superior client service, but also by continually advancing our technology to better support employers all the way through the screening and new hire process.

Give us a call today to find out how we can help to streamline your I-9 and E-Verify® process. For more information, you can also visit our website at http://infocubic.com/about us.
