Architectural Lighting Market 2017

Architectural lighting is defined as lighting, used to illuminate building structures with architectural elements. They are used for both functional and decorative purpose. The architectural lighting market includes lighting applications for indoor lighting and outdoor lighting. The indoor and outdoor segments are the major drivers for the architectural lighting market. In indoor lighting, it includes decorative and functional lighting for homes, hotels and restaurants and outdoor lighting includes events, shows and functions. Architectural lighting can be either traditional or LED lighting. Traditional lighting is categorized into linear fluorescent lamps (LFLs), compact fluorescent lamps (CFLs), and high-density discharge (HID) lights. The traditional lighting in the architectural lighting market will observe a decline in the sales due to the increasing popularity of the LED technology during the forecast period.

The analysts forecast the global architectural lighting market to grow at a CAGR of 0.98% during the period 2017-2021.
