

Critical Conference on Infectious Diseases and Patient Safety

Infectious Disease Expert to Speak at International Conference

HEATHROW, FL, USA, May 31, 2017 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The Linders Health Institute is thrilled to announce their participation at this year's ASHRAE Region XII Conference (CRC) in Panama City, Panama. The conference is an outstanding opportunity to present and discuss the latest research, network, share ideas and learn from fellow members from around the world.

Executive Director Marlene Linders, leading expert and International speaker on infectious disease is dedicated to keeping patients safe during healthcare construction projects through education and training.

At this year's conference, she will speak for two presentations. 1) An Overview for Risk Management on Infection Control during the Construction of Healthcare Buildings 2) A shared presentation with Golder & Associates about High Level Audit for Out Patient facilities and Best Practices for Infection Control and Risk Management.

It is a known fact that construction of healthcare facilities increases the chance of cross contamination for many air and water-borne germs. Reducing the cross contamination is vital to quality care and a mission of the Linders Health Institute.

The CRC conference in Panama City is one of the best opportunities for education and learning as well as a valuable chance to network. Members of the Panama section welcome all 2843 members of ASHRAE Region XII to Panama, the gateway through the Americas and is expected to draw several healthcare professionals from Brazil, Costa Rica, Panama, and the United States.

ASHRAE (American Society for Heating, Refrigeration and Air Conditioning) is a global organization that writes all the design standards for mechanical and ventilation systems and requirements for every type of occupancy load--the most critical is healthcare. These standards are adopted universally by all countries and are recognized to set the pace for Best Practices for Mechanical Design worldwide.

About The Linders Health Institute™: The Linders Health Institute™ was founded by Executive Director Marlene Linders and is dedicated to keeping patients safe during healthcare construction projects, through education and training. It offers courses, and accreditation programs to the AEC (architects, engineers, contractors) and the healthcare industry. The programs address safety, compliance and exposure risks during construction of healthcare buildings and the built environment. The Linders Health Institute™ has been recognized globally as a Subject Matter Expert. Many courses are accredited by the USGBC and the American Institute of Architects.

Ms. Linders holds degrees in Architecture and Nursing Science, as well as a Master's Degree in Science. She has several years of extensive expertise in development, construction and design for building systems and is a published author for the ASHRAE Journal, Long Term Care, Restoration and Remediation, and Kimberly Clark now known as Halyard.
